Take a moment to think back to all the hard work you have put in over the course of the last month, month and a half. The heat, the rain, the stress, everything you've been through has led to this. This is one of the most difficult shows I've had to teach in my relatively short career, and I each and every day I am continually amazed at your relentless fearlessness and tenacity to overcome hardship. Each week we focus not on how well other bands will do but on how well we can do, and that's exactly what we need to do this weekend. Remember to take care of your business off the field so you can perform your heart out on the field. Let's have a great weekend!
